Residents say footpath is a magnet for drug users and anti-social behaviour

FRUSTRATED residents are demanding a notorious alleyway is closed off in a bid to tackle escalating anti-social behaviour in their neighbourhood.

The footpath – nicknamed “The Black Run” – is sandwiched between residential properties in Old Orchard and the grounds of Abbotswold Primary School.

According to locals it has been a hotspot for drug-taking, graffiti, drinking and vandalism for years.

They claim that needles and used condoms are regularly dumped in their back gardens, while the path has become a no-go area due to excessive litter, dog excrement and offensive graffiti.

But despite numerous petitions being submitted over the years to both Essex County Council and Harlow Council, the route remains open.

Daren Clampton, who is leading the latest campaign supported

By VICKY LANE
vicky.lane@hertssexnews.co.uk

by more than 130 residents, told the Star: “The footpath was created in 1968 and from day one local people have been campaigning for its closure because of anti-social behaviour.”

“But the request keeps being passed back and forth between Essex County Council and Harlow Council, with each eventually deciding it is either not their responsibility or they don’t have the funds. It’s incredibly frustrating.”

Pensioner Elaine Pritchard (81), who was among the first group of residents who tried to get the alleyway sealed off in the late 1960s, said: “It seems it has always been a meeting place for frustrated young people.”

“They regularly kick the fence in and I even caught one boy setting fire to it once. It can leave you feeling very vulnerable.”

Harlow MP Robert Halfon, who has backed several campaigns calling for the footpath’s closure, said urgent action was now required.

“It’s a real danger for residents and children at Abbotswold School,” he said this week. “Enough is enough, we need the alleyway closed off and cleaned up properly.”

But Harlow councillor Emma Toal, portfolio holder for youth and citizenship, insisted the authority had investigated residents’ complaints in the past but found no evidence of anti-social behaviour.

“It is a public right of way so we cannot just block it off without good reason,” she said.

“We are not ruling this out but we need firm evidence from residents that there are anti-social behaviour problems.”

“We need specific information to be reported to us through Contact Harlow.”

“In the meantime our community safety team will be making periodic visits and the environment response team will be requested to clear up the area.”

ANGRY: Residents say the footpath behind their homes is a hotspot for anti-social behaviour. Inset, evidence of drug use

Tesco security guard suffers knife injury in store robbery

A SECURITY guard suffered a knife wound after confronting two robbers at the Tesco supermarket in Church Langley, Harlow, in the early hours of yesterday (Wednesday).

The pair made off with an undisclosed amount of cash shortly after 3am after threatening the guard with a knife at the 24-hour store in Church Langley Way.

The guard, who sustained a shallow laceration across his back during the incident, was treated at the scene by paramedics.

The supermarket remained closed to the public until around 11am as officers continued their investigations.

DS Patrick Mullan, of Essex Police, said: “The incident took place near the entrance of the store by the self-service checkouts.”

“We are appealing for anyone who may have been either inside or outside the store at the time and saw any suspicious activity or vehicles to contact us.”

Anyone with information should contact officers on the Harlow target team on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Will's beating the drum for the Olympics

THE drum roll has begun for one Harlow man as he counts down the final hours to the Olympics opening ceremony tomorrow night (Friday).

For Will Badham (32), of Challinor, will be one of 1,000 drummers keeping the beat during the spectacular London 2012 opening and closing shows directed by Danny Boyle.

The father-of-one, who works as a buyer for a food manufacturing company, has been playing the drums for fun since the age of 11. It was after reading an advert asking for people to audition to be performers that he decided to put himself forward.

"I saw that they were looking for performers so thought I'd give it a go," he said. "I had to get through a two-stage audition process to get a place and was absolutely over the moon when I did."

He said he could never have imagined that one day he would be playing to an expected worldwide audience of over a billion people, adding: "Having never played the drums professionally it is quite an overwhelming thought.

"Danny Boyle has done an incredible job. I am nervous but mainly just really excited now!"

Will said the experience would be extra special as the drummers had been chosen to marshal athletes into the stadium.

"I'm not sure it is possible to get a better seat than walking side-by-side with some of the world's top athletes," he added.

"I doubt I'll sleep for a week after Friday!"

PINT-sized pop princesses Sophia Grace Brownlee and Rosie McClelland cemented their newfound celebrity status by winning a coveted Teen Choice Award on Sunday.

Giggling and dancing throughout the glitzy Fox Network awards bash in California, the cousins from Old Harlow spent the evening rubbing shoulders with some of the biggest names in music, TV and film before being named Choice Web Stars 2012.

Unfazed by the accolade, Sophia Grace (9) and Rosie (5) collected their prize with comedian Ellen DeGeneres, who has played an instrumental part in their rise to fame since making the girls a regular feature on her primetime TV show last year.

Sophia Grace's dad Dominic told the Star watching the pair collect their award was one of the proudest moments of his life.

"I would like to say a big thank you to anyone who voted for Sophia Grace and Rosie and supported them on this wonderful journey," he added.

Dressed in their customary pink tutus and sparkly tiaras, the girls were repeatedly shown dancing during the televised ceremony and at one point even received an on-air kiss from teen heartthrob Justin Bieber.

Online gossip columnist Perez Hilton later described the moment when pop idol Carly Rae Jepsen handed the microphone to Sophia Grace during a rendition of her hit song Call Me Maybe as "truly one of the best moments of this year's TCAs".

Keep a watch to foil metal thieves

HARLOW Neighbourhood Watch is calling on residents to do their bit in the fight against metal theft.

Members of the group, which encourages people to act as the eyes and ears of their communities in an effort to reduce crime, are urging residents to report any suspicious activity they see – however big or small.

"Due to an unprecedented increase, metal theft is estimated to cost the UK economy £770m per year," said Paul Wadley, secretary of the Harlow group. "However, the financial impact is dwarfed by the impact on society, the inconvenience and potential impact on public health and safety and the effect on local businesses."

Mr Wadley said some of the more common objects believed to be stolen for their metal content included drain covers, cables, garden tools, catalytic converters, memorial plaques, and roofing material.

"We are urging everyone to be vigilant and to report any suspicious activity to the police," he added.

Dad's thanks to PAH for saving son's life

A GRATEFUL father is on a mission to raise as much money as possible for the hospital that saved his baby son's life.

Sam Snelling, of Victoria Gate, Harlow, has already had both legs and armpits waxed and taken part in a charity bike ride, raising £600 for Princess Alexandra Hospital.

However, the 29-year-old says he has no intention of stopping his fundraising efforts as he continues to show his appreciation to PAH staff for the support they gave him and wife Nina (29) during the birth of their first child, Ralph, last May.

"We had been told during one of the final scans that things weren't completely right with the baby's umbilical cord," said Sam, who works as a bid writer.

"The doctors weren't overly worried about it, though; they were just ready to take some extra precautions if necessary.

"However, the birth ended up being long and difficult and as a result Ralph swallowed meconium [a substance found in newborn infants]. This caused his lungs to collapse and his kidneys to fail.

"He was rushed to the neonatal intensive care unit for emergency medical treatment."

According to Sam, Ralph ended up spending six days in the unit receiving round-the-clock care.

"It was terrifying to see our son so ill,"

By VICKY LANE

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

said Sam, "but the nurses and doctors were brilliant and extremely reassuring the whole time. I have no doubt that their quick response and amazing care saved Ralph's life."

Despite a few ups and downs with his health, Sam says Ralph is now doing well, which is why he has turned his attention to fundraising.

"I am hoping to do a few small things such as quiz nights and cake sales over the next few months, but the next big challenge will be the Men's Health Survival of the Fittest in November.

"It's a 10km course with an army-style obstacle at every kilometre. I'm not the fittest of people right now so it will certainly take some training but worth it to top up the funds."

Sam added: "It is a great feeling to be able to give something back and know that I am helping other parents and babies who find themselves in the same situation that we did.

"Unfortunately there is rarely any warning that something like this is going to happen, so it is good to know that things are in good hands when they do."

Become trustee for Home Start

VOLUNTEER trustees are being sought by a charity which offers support to families.

Home Start Harlow, based at the Latton Bush Centre, is looking for people to sit on the board of trustees to ensure resources are used effectively.

"Being a trustee can enhance skills and knowledge, build confidence and provide personal development opportunities," said family support co-ordinator Julie Gulrajani.

"Volunteers only need to commit eight-10 hours a month and are supported all the way."

The Harlow branch of the national group, which trains parents to provide non-judgmental support to other parents in their area, has also recruited nine new volunteers who have completed their preparation course.

"We are delighted," added Ms Gulrajani. "Our dedicated home visiting volunteers will facilitate coping strategies to enable a brighter future for local families."

For more information about Home Start Harlow or to find out about becoming a trustee, call (01279) 451669 or visit www.homestartharlow.org.uk.

Store's offer of a place to meet

CASH-strapped charities and voluntary groups struggling to find a local base for meetings will soon be able to hold events at a Harlow supermarket.

As part of the store's community life scheme, Asda is opening up a space where not-for-profit organisations can meet for free.

Store manager Max Scarff explained: "We are opening up our café and training room at no cost because we realise having a space to sit down and meet is becoming increasingly harder for not-for-profit organisations.

"We require eight weeks notice of a booking and evidence of public liability insurance, but other than that we will simply be there if they need us. It really is their space to use."

Any groups wanting to take up the offer should go to the customer services desk in store.

Hospice lottery

THE winner of the £1,000 prize in the St Clare Hospice lottery drawn on Friday, July 20 is ticket holder 257923, who lives in Harlow.

The second prize of £100 goes to the holder of ticket number 810873, who lives in Waltham Abbey.

Shoppers chip in for lad's operation in the States

GENEROUS shoppers have been donating their spare change help a brave youngster undergo life-changing surgery.

Joel James (11), who was born in Harlow but now lives in Lincolnshire, spent last Saturday at the Sainsbury's store off Fifth Avenue with his family, packing bags to raise £930 towards the total.

The youngster, who relies on a wheelchair after being born with spastic diplegia cerebral palsy, is heading to the States next week for the £50,000 operation which doctors said could see him up and running within two years.

"It has been tough but within four-and-a-half months we have raised over £41,000," said Joel's mum Karen, who grew up in Brockles Mead.

"We will have to raise the rest of the money when we get back but could not be more appreciative of the incredible support we have received from everyone, both in Harlow and back at home. It's been amazing."

Collections made by the family - including Joel's father Stewart, sister Sarina and grandparents Marion and Mark Stretton - were further aided by Sainsbury's staff and company mascot, Lola the frog.

Karen added: "It has been a long journey and we are all nervous about the next stage but also feeling really positive. As Joel said to me earlier, he is looking forward to starting secondary school next term with his new legs."

A night to remember for champion fundraiser Sue

A WOMAN responsible for raising more than £110,000 for a guide dog charity in memory of her late husband has been honoured for her efforts.

Sue Ratcliffe, of Sheering Road, Harlow, was named fundraiser of the year at the Specsavers' Guide Dog of the Year awards ceremony held in London and hosted by TV presenter Adrian Chiles.

Since her husband Gary was killed in a road traffic accident eight years ago at the age of 42, florist Sue has worked tirelessly to raise funds for his favourite charity, Guide Dogs UK.

With the help of family and friends, she has already raised enough to fund the training of 21 new guide dog pups. And she said receiving the award had now spurred her on to raise even more for the cause.

"Even before finding out I had won it was such an amazing and emotional night," said Sue.

"Meeting people that our fundraising benefits and hearing their stories has only made us more determined to carry on our work.

"The award is such a fantastic way to acknowledge the combined efforts of everyone who has helped me to raise so much money and I know Gary would be so proud of us. It really was one of those evenings I will never forget."

Judge frees burglar after telling him he should be locked up

A SERIAL burglar responsible for a string of crimes has been given a last chance to go straight, despite being told he deserved to go to prison for five years.

Taylor Knox (19), of East Park, Harlow, committed his latest offence within three weeks of release from a previous custodial sentence.

But having been told Knox realised he had to change and was now going to be living with and working for his father, judge Rodger Hayward Smith relented and imposed a community order with a night-time curfew.

"The people who suffered this burglary may think I have taken leave of my senses but if you can lead a decent life perhaps now is the time to try it," he said.

Mark Lakin, prosecuting at Chelmsford Crown Court, said Knox broke

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertssexnews.co.uk

into a house at Wedhey, Harlow, on March 28 and stole nearly £3,000 worth of jewellery. But he was being watched by police officers who then followed him to the town centre where he sold it on for £2,800.

Mr Lakin said the victim of the burglary, Jacqueline Farrow, had gone on holiday with her partner the previous day.

"Knox was seen by police in the area approaching the door, going in, closing the door behind him and five minutes later coming out," said Mr Lakin. "He was seen to go from there to the Harvey Centre and into Lloyds Gold. He handed over to staff the jewellery, the proceeds of the burglary."

Although half of the items were recovered, some that were not were described as irreplaceable and of sentimental value.

Knox was then seen to buy various items in the town centre. He was eventually stopped in Haydens Road and had £950 on him. Mr Lakin said officers found more cash at his home, recovering £1,725 in total.

In a statement read to the court, Ms Farrow said that when she was contacted in Spain to be told of the burglary it completely ruined her holiday – the first she had taken since the death of her mother.

She added that every time she went out she now thought she would return home to find it had been broken into.

The court was told the defendant's previous offences, which began in 2005 with robbery, included eight burglaries. At an earlier hearing he was described as a persistent offender.

Ian Boyes, representing Knox who pleaded guilty to burglary, said in mitigation he had previously been leading a "sporadic" life in Skegness under little or no control and mixing with the more criminally experienced.

The judge imposed a two-year community order with two years of supervision and a 12-month drug rehabilitation requirement. Knox will also have to wear an electronic tag during the period of a six-month curfew from 7.30pm to 6am.

He told Knox: "I'm required to send you into custody for a minimum of three years unless I think it's unjust. You deserve five years."

"However, I'm told you do want to change and I'm going to give you the chance to do that. You express sorrow and sent a letter to those you burgled."

"If you break this order or commit further offences I will send you inside for five years. It's what I ought to be doing now but maybe you have finally woken up to your senses."

Town has resources to cope with bike boom

BRADLEY Wiggins's historic victory in the Tour de France will inspire a new generation to get on their bikes, according to Harlow's very own cycling champion.

Wiggins, pictured right, became the first Brit to win the gruelling 2,000 mile endurance race in its 109-year history.

Now John Curry, who has worked tirelessly to promote cycling across the town as the local Cycle Touring Club representative and vice-chairman of Cycle Harlow, expects the athlete's success to spark a UK bike boom.

"With cycling now making the front page of most national newspapers and the Olympics just around the corner, I'm hoping the 'Wiggins effect' can have an equally big impact in convincing people across Harlow to take to two wheels," said Mr Curry.

"I'm confident Bradley's phenomenal achievement will really inspire more people – especially youngsters – to get outside, get on their bikes and get healthy."

Harlow is well-equipped to deal with a cycling explosion, boasting more than 30 miles of cycle tracks and a dedicated Hub+Spoke cycling centre in Bush Fair offering services including repairs, led rides and local cycling maps as well as serving as a hub for the town's cycling community.

"We've got such fantastic resources for cyclists in Harlow," said Mr Curry. "It's time more people started using them to explore all that our town and the surrounding areas have to offer."

"Not only is cycling good for your health, it's also something you can do on your way to school or work. Not many sports can offer that kind of freedom!"

Court sets trial date for man accused of mum-to-be's murder

A MAN accused of killing mum-to-be Estyna Blunnie and causing the death of her unborn daughter will stand trial in February next year.

Tony McLernon (23), of North Grove, Harlow, is charged with murder and child destruction.

Following a preliminary hearing at Southwark Crown Court on Thursday, a plea and case management hearing is scheduled to take place at Southwark Crown Court on September 26.

If McLernon pleads not guilty to either charge, his trial has been fixed to start on February 18 at Chelmsford Crown Court.

Ms Blunnie (20), of Halling Hill, was found by the roadside in Howard Way shortly before 3am on Wednesday, June 27.

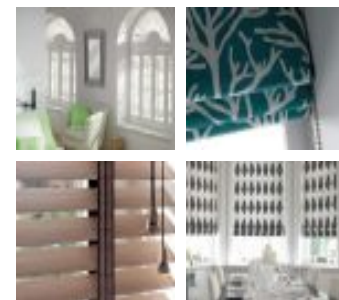

She was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital but doctors were unable to save her or her unborn baby.

GB selectors wrong not to pick Richard

SIR, Further to your report on last week's back page about Harlow wheelchair athlete Richard Chiassaro's omission for the GB Paralympic squad, I feel the selectors came to the wrong conclusion.

Richard is currently ranked first in the UK and fourth in Europe, which is a powerhouse in wheelchair racing. Moreover, he has performed well in every major race and his form is consistently improving.

A top eight placing in 2012 and medal position in 2016 is, therefore, a real possibility, which is what we are told the selectors are looking for. I also find it disappointing that, given Richard's potential, the selectors have not used the full quota of places.

The Paralympic selection process is very complex but he could have been named in round two of the procedure as he has done the A standard and several B standards. Part of his problem is that he is self-funded which creates fewer opportunities to chase standards and world rankings. Funding gives access to the best races, such as the Swiss Championships in Nottwil, and makes it easier to up your ranking.

As taxpayers, we have spent a couple of billion on the Olympics/Paralympics so I think it is a waste not to fill all available places.

Moreover, if as a governing body you feel your UK number one and European number four hasn't demonstrated his case on the world stage, why do you not send him to either the European Championships or to the

FLASHBACK: Last week's Star report

US Paralympic trials in preparation for Paralympic selection?

Wheelchair athletes have far fewer opportunities for good competitions. There is some hope that an appeal would be successful as Gareth Warburton won his appeal against not being selected for the Olympics. But then 10 other athletes didn't.

Don't leave them to watch it at home on television

SIR, I thought I should add a few more comments about Richard Chiassaro's non selection for the GB Paralympic squad.

The rumour is the selectors had to limit the Paralympic team to a maximum of 50 athletes which is why only 49 have been selected. Why?

If you look at all the track/field classifications and the number of male/female athletes, then this makes no sense to me at all. On this basis it's no wonder Richard and other athletes had no chance of selection from the word go.

The selectors also use the Raza System whereby an athlete has to achieve a minimum of 880 points or else they fail. I don't know what Richard's points total was and assume he or someone who is helping him has checked this?

They also consider whether he had top eight potential for 2012 and decided he didn't. I strongly disagree with this decision. He is in form, of a good age and is having a great season – quite obviously top eight potential.

It's a home Paralympics. The costs are minimal so pack the team with athletes, don't leave them at home to watch it on the television.

Council leader shackled to his Old Labour roots

SIR, Harlow Council's state of the nation meeting on Thursday showed that council leader Mark Wilkinson is shackled to his 'Old

WHAT'S that old saying about letting sleeping dogs lie? These two certainly don't want to be disturbed.

The photograph was sent in by Maggie and Dick Presland, of Church End, Harlow.

"It is of our two Staffordshire Bull Terriers sunning themselves in our garden," they write. "Talk about make yourself at home; they both decided to hop on the sun loungers and sun themselves as soon as we got up!

"The one on the right is called Biscuit (aged 26 months) and the one on the left is Belle (aged 20 months). They are the funniest and most loving dogs we've ever had."

Labour' roots and is struggling to find a way forward.

He began his address with some tentative acknowledgement of the golden legacy left by the outgoing Conservative administration before moving quickly to the financial pressures facing the authority – but without once acknowledging responsibility for this lies with his own party which left the country with £3.625 trillion of debt.

He said he cancelled the civic dinner because these were "posh dinners for people in gold chains", missing the point but promoting the politics of envy. Despising people in gold chains did not prevent him joining them at our recent civic service. What hypocrisy.

He described the Olympic Torch procession as one of the finest moments in Harlow's history. I agree, but in August 2005 he rejected my call for an all-party Olympics working group to promote Harlow's involvement. Thus six months of inactivity followed before the town's then MP Bill Rammell took it up and by then Harlow had been left in the starting blocks.

He poured scorn on the Conservatives' record of freezing Harlow's council tax and would not commit to continuing this, doubtless aware that 9,000 Harlow households pay little or no council tax.

He said he was committed to consultation but couldn't say what avenues he would use other than those used under Conservatives; including residents associations, tenant and leaseholder groups, ward surgeries, neighbourhood forums and the youth council.

In stark contrast, some of his fellow councillors spoke of consensus, working together, building bridges and recognising the achievements of the last administration. I hope these consensus builders will hold sway over their Old Labour colleagues so we can all move forward for the good of Harlow.

Grave robbers who stole urns are lowest of the low

SIR, Last week my sister and I visited our father's grave at Parndon Wood Crematorium to lay flowers, only to discover the metal urn and those from around his grave were gone.

It has led us to believe that they have been stolen for scrap metal. It has angered and upset us that someone could do such a cruel thing. Who would stoop so low?

Although the crematorium staff were extremely helpful and replaced the urn for free, we are sure the theft will upset other families whose loved ones are buried there. If anyone knows anything please contact the local police.

Did you help with the new town's construction?

SIR, I am currently studying for a Masters in architecture at the University of Westminster, undertaking research for my dissertation.

The title is 'Constructing a community: Harlow New Town' and my aim is to establish an oral history of the accounts of the construction workers of Harlow.

This has the potential to be a very interesting investigation and being able to speak to the construction workers themselves would be a great opportunity.

The construction of the new town started in 1947 which would now make the workers aged between 85-95. Trying to locate them could be difficult, so hopefully if any of them read this letter in the Star I would be very grateful if they contact me on 07792 337613

Green Flag still flies over nature reserve

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

PICTURESQUE Parndon Wood Nature Reserve has kept the flag flying for Harlow as one of the UK's best-kept green spaces.

The reserve has been awarded Green Flag status for the fourth year running in recognition of the fact it is well-maintained, well-managed, and offers "excellent" facilities.

The scheme, first launched in 1996, sets the national standard for parks and green spaces throughout the country. This year a record 1,424 Green Flags have been awarded.

Parndon Wood is one of five discretionary services which Harlow Council offloaded to voluntary sector partners earlier this year. Environmental charity ECCO is now responsible for the day-to-day running although the council continues to maintain the grounds with help from volunteers.

The organisation has been quick to make its mark on the site by extending opening hours and developing a new programme of community events. It is also planning to refurbish the conservation centre to incorporate a visitors' café.

ECCO spokesman Sean Folan said: "We are really pleased that all the hard work that goes into retaining the Green Flag status has paid off."

"During August we will be extending the opening hours to seven days a week to give more people the opportunity to enjoy the nature reserve's unique environment."

"We are also developing a community café so visitors can come and relax with a drink and have something to eat. Our website is also being developed to promote the programme of events we are holding."

Jon Clempner, Harlow Council's

portfolio holder for environment, said: "Every year it gets harder for public spaces to achieve Green Flag status."

"For nature reserves the scoring criteria is harder, with very high standards for bio-diversity and wildlife having to be met as opposed to open parks which score more on the quality of grass maintenance and aesthetics."

"The award is testament to the hard work of council officers and the many local volunteers who help maintain the reserve to this standard."

Highways chiefs to spend extra £11m on pothole repairs

ESSEX County Council is to shell out an extra £11m on repairing potholes over the next 10 months.

The work will take place throughout the summer and is scheduled to finish in May next year.

During the summer months existing potholes will be repaired and, starting in November, roads teams will be treating parts of the county's road network to ensure fewer potholes develop in the future.

Potholes usually occur during the winter months as a direct result of snow, ice and prolonged periods of rain such as flooding.

More than 50,000 were repaired across Essex last year but extreme weather conditions, including heavy snowfall in the winter followed by a dry spring and then severe flooding, have caused more damage to roads and increased the need for repairs.

In most cases a high pressure patching system is used to reduce disruption to traffic.

A County Hall spokesman said: "We are committed to delivering frontline services and putting our customers first, which is why we are making this significant commitment to improving our road network."

To report a pothole, visit the county council's website at www.essex.gov.uk

Man in court for murder of mum-of-four

A MAN charged with the murder of a 37-year-old mum-of-four has been remanded in custody following a court appearance on Friday.

Mark Golds (45), of Copshall Close, Harlow, will next appear at Chelmsford Crown Court on September 17 for a plea and case management hearing.

Golds is accused of killing Claire Parrish at her home in Copshall Close on Sunday, July 15. The defence made no application for bail.

Ms Parrish was found with fatal injuries after sustaining what police described as 'blunt force trauma' to her abdomen.

M-way closed after accident

TWO people were taken to hospital after a lorry and car collided on the M11 on Monday night.

Police closed the northbound carriageway south of Harlow shortly after 6pm.

Both the driver of the lorry, which overturned following the accident, and the car were taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital.

The road remained closed for more than four hours as workmen recovered the vehicles and repaired the road surface.

Council's TV offer to 'those most in need'

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of Harlow households connected to the town's piped television network will have aerials installed free of charge before the service is switched off later this year.

Up to 26,000 homes currently have access to analogue signals through the free cable service run by Virgin Media.

The company has already reached an agreement with the council to maintain the service until December 31 this year. Most residents connected to the system will then have to pay to upgrade their viewing equipment to receive a digital signal.

However, the council announced this week that up to 1,500 homes will be eligible for a free aerial through its help scheme. These include:

- people under 75 years of age and in receipt of state registered pension and housing benefit and/or council tax benefitor
- members of the Armed Forces or their widow/widowers who are in receipt of either state registered pension, housing benefit or council tax benefit
- people in receipt of a war widow/widow-pension.

The cost will be met from cash set aside by

... but free show's over for licence cheats

HUNDREDS of Harlow residents have paid the penalty for watching television without a licence during the first six months of the year.

More than 470 viewers were caught by TV Licensing between January and June.

A licence is required by anyone watching or recording TV programmes as they are shown on TV, regardless of the viewing equipment used.

Those caught cheating the system can be hauled before the courts and face fines of up to £1,000.

TV Licensing spokesperson Victoria Sykes said: "A minority of people do not pay for their licence, which is unfair to the law-abiding majority who do pay."

"We do understand some people may find it difficult to pay their licence fee in one go which is why we offer numerous ways to spread the cost.

"We also work with a range of money advice organisations whose staff can provide useful information and payment advice to help people budget for a TV licence."

Further information on how and where to pay the licence fee can be found online at www.tvlicensing.co.uk or by calling 0300 790 6112.

the authority in March to help cover the costs of the digital switchover for elderly and vulnerable residents.

The £650,000 fund has already paid for the installation of communal aerials on 14 council-owned tower blocks and 19 sheltered housing complexes.

Council leader Mark Wilkinson said the scheme is aimed at those most in need who are not eligible for support under the BBC Help Scheme, which has already helped 1,100 residents in the town switch to digital TV.

"I think it's important to support those residents most in need like our sheltered housing residents and those claiming benefit who are not in a position to pay for the installation of a TV aerial," he said.

Letters have already been sent out to the 1,500 households eligible for help from the council, but any resident who has not received a letter and thinks they may be eligible should call (01279) 446655 or email contact@harlow.gov.uk.

PAH surgeon wins top NHS award

A SURGEON at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital has been named NHS Teacher of the Year.

Fouad Kaldas, who picked up the coveted award at a ceremony in London, was nominated by final year medical students who have spent the past 12 months working at various hospitals to learn from medics at the very top of their profession.

Mr Kaldas, pictured right, leads the hospital's surgical education modules for year three medical students and is currently undertaking a masters degree in post graduate medical education.

During their hospital placements, students spend a large part of their time with consultant doctors learning through bedside teaching, formal lectures, problem-based learning discussions and medical simulation sessions.

Mr Kaldas said he was delighted to receive the award.

"I am very grateful to my students for nominating me and am just delighted that I have been able to aid their education in a way which they found beneficial," he said.

"I am passionate about passing on the knowledge I have developed over my 25 years in the medical profession and look forward to teaching future students at PAH for many years to come."

Cops to tackle celebs in charity match

STARS of TV and film will come up against the long legs of the law during a fundraising football match next weekend.

A celebrity team featuring actor Danny Dyer and TV presenter Jeff Brazier will line up against Harlow Police FC at The Link Sports and Social Club in Parsloe Road next Sunday (August 5) to raise money for Passmores Academy teacher Julian Rud-ick's Lupus Five appeal. The annual charity kick-about is now in its third year and so far has raised thousands of pounds for good causes.

Harlow Police FC manager Stuart Burt, said: "This year we are playing on our home ground to raise money for The Lupus Five. This is a charity that Passmores Academy is involved in as Jules Ruddick, one of the teachers there, has the condition and is currently in remission.

"Both teams are only too happy to support this very worthwhile cause and help highlight the work of the charity at the same time."

Gates open at 2.30pm and kick-off is at 3pm. The cost of admission is £2 for adults (£1 concessions).

Youngsters got a taste for different cultures after tucking into dishes from around the world during a global food-tasting day. The event capped off the Pyenest Road school's Around The World week, during which each class learned more about the history, culture and traditions of a foreign country of their choosing. The children then helped rustle up delicacies from countries including India, Brazil and Kenya before sampling each other's dishes. Geography subject leader Dean Doyle said: "The food-tasting event was a great way to give the children a real flavour of the countries they'd spent all week learning about. "The whole school got involved and everyone really enjoyed taking part... and the food was delicious!" ST ALBANS PRIMARY The school football team reaped the rewards of their hard work when they lifted the Harlow League Cup. After pushing their way to the top of the table for the year-long knockout tournament, the team faced reigning champions William Martin in a repeat of last year's final. This time St Albans came out on top, clinching victory with a thrilling 5-4 win. Deputy head Peter Kuminek said coach George Reynolds and all the staff at the school were very proud of the team's efforts. "They have worked extremely hard all year and shown that together everyone achieves more," he said. "They are great ambassadors for the school. "The victory is all the sweeter because it was a repeat of last year's final – except that this time the trophy came back with us!" (photo: HAR0843947)

LATTON GREEN PRIMARY Budding young gymnasts put in an Olympic effort to take home an impressive haul of trophies from the finals of a countywide competition. The children celebrated success in the Key Steps Gymnastic Competition at Basildon Sports Village, with two teams from Years 1 & 2 and 3 & 4 both finishing overall winners in their age category. Their victory put them through to the regional finals in Stowmarket, where the Year 3 & 4 team almost made the podium after finishing in fourth place, while the Year 1 & 2 team finished eighth in their age group. PE teacher Liz Hazlehurst said she was thrilled with the tremendous effort put in by the youngsters. "The children performed gymnastics to a high standard and should be very proud of their achievements," she added. (photo: HAR0845854)

THE semi-rural idyll of Old Harlow may be far removed from the battlefields of the First World War, but the sacrifices made by local servicemen were never forgotten by the town's residents.

As can be seen in this photograph sent to Nostalgia by former resident Chris Farmer, a powerful reminder of their contribution to the war effort once stood on Mulberry Green – a field cannon captured from the German army. Mr Farmer, who now lives at Banbury in Oxfordshire, said he had originally posted the picture on a social networking site in a bid to find out why the weapon had been placed there.

"I just couldn't understand why there was a huge great cannon in Mulberry Green pointing up the hill towards where Gilden Way is now," he explained.

"However, after posting it on a Facebook a few people carried out their own investigations and we now have a lot more information."

According to Mr Farmer, group member Neil Betteridge discovered that the cannon in the photograph is a German-issue 7cm Feldkanone96

Neuer Art fieldgun which was captured by a locally-based regiment before being transported back to the UK as a trophy.

"Often such things were taken from the German army during the First World War and brought back to Britain," explained Mr Farmer. "They would then be put on display in the local regiment's home area to highlight their achievements."

Although Mr Farmer believes this photo was taken after the Great War had ended, he said it was possible the cannon was brought to Old Harlow while the conflict was ongoing.

"Some of the guns were captured as early as 1914 so it could have reached Harlow at any point during the war," he said. "Essentially it means we must have had one brave bunch of lads from the area to achieve this feat. Respect to them all!"

Mr Farmer added: "Apparently only 68 of these guns survive today, though I am unsure what happened to the Harlow one or if it is still in existence. Perhaps it was bought by a collector?"

"I just thought more people in Harlow would be interested in seeing the picture. It is also amusing to think what would happen today with all our health and safety regulations if someone turned up in the town dragging a huge cannon behind them!"

Mini marathon memories

From the Star 25 years ago

Toy lions were on the loose in Harlow after several were stolen from the boot of a car on Friday. The soft toys – worth £250 – were part of a kit that came with raffle tickets and cannot be bought in the shops.

A canoe instructor is to receive a special letter of appreciation from Harlow Police after he rescued a man from a blazing car. After seeing smoke coming from the car parked in Collins Meadow, Dave Norman from Harlow Kayak Club dragged the 48-year-old driver from his vehicle just moments before it burst into flames.

Harlow MP Jerry Hayes has angered the council by having its £50m loan arrangement declared illegal by a minister in the House of Commons. The council said the MP was deliberately misleading the public, but Mr Hayes said the council should have taken legal advice before proceeding with the loan from a foreign bank.

Funding for the training of young cyclists has been cut by Essex County Council because it says children of nine cannot retain information. Only children aged 10 or over will now receive the safe cycling training conducted in schools.

WITH the Olympic Games opening ceremony taking place tomorrow, one Harlow resident thought it would be fitting to look back on some of the town's own sporting achievements.

Jan Green, of Spencers Croft, sent in this delightful picture of youngsters – including her son Martin – from Spinney Junior School preparing to tackle a mini marathon.

"It was taken about 32 years ago," said Jan. "I think it was the first one although my memory isn't too reliable on that fact. However, I do remember it being great fun."

"The children ran on the cycle tracks surrounding the school. Staff, parents and the local police marshalled the event and luckily the weather stayed fine."

Jan said she still recognised a few faces in the line-up. "The boy with the camera is Owen who is now a professional photographer. Next to him is my son, now a research engineer and the lad with his hands on his hips and legs crossed is Daniel, who works in IT"

She added: "The head at the time was John Hutchins but I cannot remember if Marion Hammond was still deputy."

● Do you recognise any of the runners or have pictures of sporting events from days gone past that you'd like to share? Write to Nostalgia, 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JX or email vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

Work and play: the rules that apply to holiday pay

AT this time of year many people are planning holidays or taking some time off work.

Since 2009 the Working Time Regulations allow workers to take a minimum of 5.6 weeks paid holiday, although you may be entitled to more in your contract.

It is paid at a daily rate (salary divided by number of working days in each year) and is paid at the 'normal rate' i.e. not including overtime, bonuses and commission.

Employers cannot reduce pay for the rest of the year to cover holiday pay and they should not increase the hourly rate to avoid paying holiday pay at the time of the holiday. However, if amounts paid are clear additions to the normal hourly rate and are agreed, employers may offset it against any holiday pay owed. If this affects you, seek more detailed advice.

Annual leave must be taken in the year it is due unless your contract allows you to carry it over to the next year. It can only be replaced by a payment if your employment ends.

When requesting holiday, the worker should give the employer twice as much notice as the length of holiday to be taken, for example two weeks if they want one week of holiday.

Information from Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice

Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice provides specialist advice and tribunal and court representation on matters involving benefits, housing, employment and debt. Information on a range of other subjects is also available. Appointments can be made to see specialist advisers and solicitors. Contact the service on (01279) 446622 or by calling in at the Advice Centre, 2 East Gate, The High, between 10am and 1.30pm on weekdays. Out-of-hours appointments and home visits are available if necessary.

The employer can refuse to grant leave (as long as they give the correct notice) and can specify when the leave should be taken – such as if there is a shut down at Christmas – as long as they give sufficient notice.

If you are not paid for your holiday or have not been allowed to take holiday within the leave year despite many requests, you may have a claim under the Working Time Regulations or for an unlawful deduction of wages.

Similarly, if your employment comes to an end you should be paid for any untaken holidays.

Any problems must be brought to the Employment Tribunal within three months, less one day, from the time of the refusal or non-payment.

The Working Time Regulations and the calculation of holiday pay can be complicated. If you think you may have a claim, contact Harlow Welfare Rights and Advice.

Giving astronauts a taste for space

SCIENTISTS preparing for the world's first manned mission to Mars are busy cooking up a special menu to keep hungry astronauts happy on the two-and-a-half-year trip.

It will take almost six months to reach the Red Planet. The team will stay there for up to 18 months before heading back to Earth, and with no way of restocking their supplies during their trip, the astronauts will need enough food on board to last the duration.

Designing a healthy, balanced menu is proving to be a real challenge for the scientists working on the project. They have so far come up with around 100 recipes. The menu is completely vegetarian because it's currently impossible to preserve meat and dairy products long enough to survive the trip.

Lead scientist Maya Cooper told reporters: "We simply don't have the option to send a vehicle every six months with more food as we do for the International Space Station."

One idea is to have a greenhouse on board the spaceship where astronauts can grow fruit and vegetables. They would have to care for the plants and then combine the fresh ingredients with others brought from Earth to prepare their meals.

Maybe they should just stock up on Mars Bars!

Six-day music project promises to be un-Beat-able

ASPIRING singers and musicians will get the chance to impress an audience of industry bigwigs during a six-day music course taking place next month.

The brainchild of professionally trained actor and singer Nathan Stickley, HertsBeats 2012 will offer bands and solo artists expert tuition on developing their act before giving participants the opportunity to perform live in front of record company reps.

Former Sawbridgeworth resident Nathan said: "I moved back to the local area a couple of years ago and was hugely impressed with the provision for training young theatre performers.

"But I saw that whilst there was some help out there, there was not a vast amount of training and help for up-and-coming musicians, singers and bands.

"There is a huge wealth of musical talent in this area and I wanted to create something to give a bit of help."

Running from Monday, August 13 until Saturday, August 18 at St Mary's Catholic School in Windhill, Bishop's Stortford, the course is open to all bands, duos and solo artists regardless of age or ability.

A team of professional musicians and music producers will be on hand to give participants help and advice, with all acts also given time in the studio to record their very own demo.

The six-day course costs £150 for individuals and £125 per person for bands (three people plus).

To book a place - which must be secured with a £50 non-refundable deposit - contact Nathan Stickley on 07780 992643 or Sam Bowen on 07950 414232.

For more information about the course, email hertsbeats@freshfacedmedia.com.

Thoroughbreds in peak of condition

MOVEMENTS in music come and go, but once they're over and the also-rans have fallen by the wayside it's the thoroughbreds that are the ones left standing.

Such is the case with Turin Brakes. Often lazily pigeonholed with the likes of Coldplay and Travis, this London-based outfit may not have reached the stratospheric heights of Chris Martin's ensemble, but they have proven as reliable as the North Star and their fans love them for it.

Before the headlines took to the stage at The Square, though, we had Halfrite and Mackley Drive to enjoy.

Hailing from Glasgow, Halfrite were the perfect introduction to the evening. With their guitars unplugged and their hearts on their collective sleeve, they exhibited the full range - chirpy and upbeat one song, sombre and serious the next, but all with an honesty that was impossible to dislike.

Barely looking like they were old enough to grow a convincing 'tache, review

TURIN BRAKES
The Square, Harlow

the five members of Mackley Drive nevertheless produced a sound that belied their years.

Each song, Bermuda Triangle especially, left nothing to chance and went for the epic at every turn. It may not be everyone's cup of tea but their optimistic spirit proved infectious.

With six studio albums behind them, Turin Brakes are able to fall back on a wealth of material, something they employed to full effect in a set that became a veritable conveyor belt of class.

Times may have changed and the lighters that would have once been held aloft have now been replaced by mobile phones, but folk-tinged songs such as Emergency 72, Fishing For A Dream and Stalker feel as fresh now as they did back in the day.

Goosebumps broke out during the haunting, yearning Feeling Oblivion, while fan-favourites Painkiller and Underdog (Save Me) soared.

The consummate professionals they are, they left the stage with the crowd clamouring for more and heading home with warm memories.

Long may these thoroughbreds continue.

Timely reminder to nurture nature

DR SEUSS' THE LORAX (3D & 2D) certificate U, 1h26m

BASED on the book of the same name, The Lorax is environmentally conscious story of one boy's noble quest to restore balance between avaricious mankind and Mother Nature. It's a timely message in light of a recent report by the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development, warning that by 2050 global greenhouse gas emissions will far exceed levels deemed safe by scientists.

Nurture that cheery thought as you watch the film's computer-animated hero risk his life in breathless action sequences to plant a tree. And while it might galvanise young audiences into action, this is primarily escapist entertainment melding comedy, mystery and a hint of pre-teen romance.

Twelve-year-old Ted Wiggins (voiced by Zac Efron) lives in the carefully controlled utopia of Thneed-Ville with his mother (Jenny Slate) and feisty grandmother Norma (Betty White). Town mayor Aloysius O'Hare (Rob Riggle) provides the residents with all they need including blissful sunshine. Everything, that is, except for real plants which are manufactured in a factory.

Ted pines for the girl next door, Audrey (Taylor Swift), who tells him what she wants to see more than anything in the world is a real tree growing in the backyard of her home. So the smitten lad seeks out a hermit called the Once-ler (Ed Helms), who apparently knows why all of the Truffula trees disappeared from Thneed-Ville. In exchange for 15 cents, a nail and the shell of a great, great, great grandfather snail, the Once-ler recounts how he inadvertently devastated the lush landscape for generations to come and summoned the legendary guardian of the forest known as The Lorax (Danny DeVito).

Through these reminiscences, Ted realises the mayor doesn't want real trees restored to Thneedville because the miracle of photosynthesis would jeopardise his lucrative oxygen supply business. Aware of the perils that lay ahead, Ted resolves to bring green back to Thneed-Ville and win Audrey's heart.

Dr Seuss' The Lorax is rendered in lurid, sherbetty hues that radiate off the screen. Indeed, the film is so bright you feel like donning sunglasses and SPF 25 rather than cumbersome plastic 3D specs which seem obligatory nowadays. Efron and Swift's honey-toned voices perfectly fit their cutesy characters, while the animators let their imaginations run amok in scenes of pre-deforestation Thneed-Ville: marshmallow-guzzling bears tumble acrobatically through the air to doo-wops from a barbershop trio of fish.

DeVito's furry, orange voice of conscience continually reminds anyone who will listen that the world can't heal itself.

Underlying messages of unity and self-sacrifice for a greater good are admirable, drizzled with mawkish sentimentality to sweeten the pill.

THE DARK KNIGHT RISES certificate 12A, 2h44m

IT is eight years since Batman falsely assumed responsibility for the death of District Attorney Harvey Dent (Aaron Eckhart) in order to bring the anti-crime legislation into effect and crush Gotham's criminal fraternity.

The Caped Crusader is a fading memory and crippled billionaire Bruce Wayne (Christian Bale) has become a virtual recluse, holed up in his manor with trusty butler Alfred (Sir Michael Caine).

An encounter with wily cat burglar Selina Kyle (Anne Hathaway) draws Bruce into the orbit of hulking terrorist Bane (Tom Hardy), who intends to complete the work of Ra's al Ghul (Liam Neeson) and destroy Gotham and its money-oriented denizens.

A dastardly plot unfolds but Bruce is physically and mentally unable to stop gangs of gun-toting mercenaries from overwhelming Commissioner Gordon (Gary Oldman) and the Gotham police force, including idealistic officer John Blake (Joseph Gordon-Levitt).

As Bane's uprising gathers momentum, Bruce turns to technical genius Lucius Fox (Morgan Freeman) and loyal board member Miranda Tate (Marion Cotillard) to protect his beloved Wayne Enterprises.

Alas, money can only go so far and Bruce must don his cowl one final time, putting his life on the line to save the residents of Gotham, who had previously turned their backs on him.

MAGIC MIKE Adam (Alex Pettyfer) lands a temporary construction job alongside nice guy Mike (Channing Tatum) but on his very first day he is sacked. As he roams the town looking for work, Adam again crosses paths with Mike who introduces him to the local male nude revue bar, where delirious women thrust dollar bills at gym-toned Adonises. It transpires that Mike is the club's star turn. A mishap affords Adam a chance to perform on stage and before long he becomes a favourite of the female clientele, but adulation comes at a price.

ICE AGE 4: CONTINENTAL DRIFT (3D & 2D) Scrat the squirrel sets off a tectonic chain reaction that threatens to destroy an entire continent. Manny the woolly mammoth, Diego the sabre-toothed tiger (Denis Leary), Sid the sloth (John Leguizamo) and Sid's grandmother (Wanda Sykes) are swept out to sea on an ice floe. While Manny's soulmate Ellie (Queen Latifah) shepherds the land animals towards a bridge that is the only escape route from the rapidly collapsing island, Manny and his chums drift helplessly away and come under attack from seafaring pirates led by prehistoric ape Captain Gutt (Peter Dinklage).

THE AMAZING SPIDER-MAN (3D & 2D) High school student Peter Parker (Andrew Garfield) is haunted by the disappearance of his parents (Campbell Scott, Embeth Davidtz). He lives with his uncle Ben (Martin Sheen) and aunt May (Sally Field) and contends with all the usual growing pains, including persistent bullying from jock classmate Flash Thompson (Chris Zylka) and a tender romance with fellow student Gwen Stacy (Emma Stone). But soon after he is bitten by a genetically modified arachnid that imbues him with superhuman powers he discovers evidence linking his parents' disappearance to his father's business partner, Dr Curt Connors (Rhys Ifans). Little does Peter realise that Connors also has a secret alter ego: reptilian menace The Lizard.

to guide you through the week ahead

Aries Mar 21-Apr 20
This week gives you the chance to pick up real momentum Aries. You are at your best when things are moving quickly, and you can demonstrate your initiative and ability to think on your feet. Moreover, your personality can truly sparkle brightly. Anything new and innovative is very well placed for you. Show confidence, and dazzle all and sundry. Call for your in-depth forecast...

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23
Friendships or your life momentum may be stop start, but can be progressive if you decide not to get too bogged down in the people or situations that are prone to glitches. But more than for a long while, you can feel more in charge of your life destiny and more powered up to make your mark. As ever, relationships are an important theme, with surprises aplenty. Call for your love scope in full...

Taurus Apr 21-May 21
Life is packed full of surprises, but your love of familiarity and routine can see you shy away from leaving behind what you know. Yet the things that come up now can be like a series of events or realizations which help you to see that there is a pathway and link from the past to the future. Someone close can delight, yet someone else may be moody. Call for more news and advice...

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22
Care over your interaction with decision makers continues to be important. Hold that every conversation can shape people's perceptions of you and the better you will do. The Quarter Moon in your sign may see you reluctant to "play the game of life" which is all very well, but it is important to be a rebel with a cause, and not just seem contrary. Call me now for more news and advice...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21
There is a crackle of energy reverberating around you this week and you can surf this to your benefit. New friendships and alliances abound, and you can find yourself very busy indeed. Yet the Quarter Moon just cautions you not to let the pace get too white hot. It may be necessary to turn down one or two invitations, and get the odd early night. Call for more news and astral advice...

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23
If you are of a certain heritage - like me, you'll recognize the mantra of appreciating what you have. Why? Because in days gone by people had a great deal less, and yet this can be a time when this kind of mentality can serve you equally well. If you are focused on doing better financially, why not! But other compensations and joys can bless you too. Call for your financial scope in full...

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20
You can do well around reorganizing your situation, but if any large amounts of money are involved in this, take your time to weigh up exactly what the benefits will be of any investments or purchases you make. If you are trying to complete on any form of property sale or waiting to drawdown a loan, things may seem to drag, so patience will be a virtue. Call for more news...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23
The Sun bursts into your sign, and you'll feel a sense of rejuvenation. It is true, that the Quarter Moon of midweek could put a dampener on proceedings, but if anyone doubts any new direction you take, this is an opportunity for you to show that you can stick to your goals, and be single minded. Besides which Leo, lots of others will cheer you on. Call for more news and advice...

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19
Don't assume that others have the same view of things as you, and it will help to ward off the downside of Mercury's rewind. If you can, there are loads of delicious planetary possibilities. A time when your rather unique take on life can resonate with quite a few people, and see an enlargement of your fan club. The trick is to be yourself. Call for more news and astral advice...

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23
The chance to progress may come when you least expect it. Therefore, it will be a good thing to keep your options open, and be ready to react flexibly. However, you may find yourself having the odd moment of personal doubt or anxiety, ignore any little tattle which is doing the rounds, because this will only serve to feed any worries you already have. Call me for your in-depth forecast...

Pisces Feb 20-Mar 20
There's a thin line between being conscientious and trying too hard to please, and you will probably find yourself treading it at some point this week. To help guide you, think of PCF - Personal Comfort Factor. For if you do, this will help you to know when to say no, and to find some time for yourself or when you'll feel at ease enough to oblige. Call me now for your in-depth forecast...

Historic 'new town' gem in grounds of almost an acre

coverproperty

Location Glebelands, Harlow

Category Four-bedroom detached

Additional Indoor swimming pool, billiards room, two/three reception rooms, double garage, mature gardens

Guide price £495,000

Agent Howick & Brooker Partnership, Gothic House, High Street, Old Harlow. Telephone (01279) 418888

NESTLED at the end of a quiet cul-de-sac in the Mark Hall conservation area of Harlow, this week's cover property is an historic gem when it comes to the history of the early post-war new town and its housing stock.

Tucked away close to the Town Park and set in mature gardens of nearly an acre, Glebelands is one of the original Harlow Development Corporation's 'standard one' houses.

'Standard one' meant a large five-bedroom detached house with a garage, which is what this property used to be until about 1980 when a local businessman and his family decided to make a few changes.

The gardens were landscaped, the house made bigger and a fabulous leisure complex was added. What appears to be a substantial bungalow in the gardens is, in fact, an extravagant leisure facility with a billiards room, bar and lounge.

Next door to this is a large heated swimming pool with support facilities. Both have wide sliding patio doors leading out into the gardens and terraces.

Although the house was remodelled, the 1980s-influenced décor and style is still evident, with exposed brick internal walls, a spiral staircase, brightly coloured bathroom suites and much more.

Among the many features of the property are a big entrance, a study with rows of bookshelves, a big patio window and a wine cellar. The living room is enormous and the kitchen is another large room.

Alterations were carried out upstairs to provide four bedrooms and the addition of an en suite bathroom.

The garage was enlarged to a double and various other touches were added. There is almost an acre of private gardens with this delightful property.

Now it's time for the owners to move on and this fine house is on the market for only the second or third time since it was built. The sale is being handled by agents Howick and Brooker; call (01279) 418888 for full details or to make an appointment to view.

Offers in excess of £190,000

THIS cosy cottage-style terraced house in the popular village of High Wych is ideal if you're looking to downsize or as a first-time or investment purchase.

The two-bedroom property is in a quiet courtyard setting. Features include a stylish fitted kitchen and is double glazed.

The rear garden includes a patio area with the remainder laid to lawn. It is enclosed by panel fencing and there is allocated parking at the front of the house.

For more details or to arrange a viewing, contact selling agents Charles David Casson Estates on (01279) 504040.

Yours for £525,000

LOCATED in Sheering Road on the outskirts of Churchgate Street, this beautifully presented bungalow has relatively low maintenance gardens to both the front and rear.

There are four bedrooms, a kitchen/breakfast room, large lounge/diner, utility room and an office/treatment room. There is also extensive parking and garaging.

The rear garden is laid to lawn with various newly constructed paths and patio areas, a large timber storage shed and secondary storage shed. Selling agents Geoffrey Matthew Estates can arrange a viewing appointment on (01279) 444988.

Countryside views for £650,000

LITTLE Orchard is situated in a rural location with far-reaching countryside views in the village of Moreton near Ongar.

A bungalow with three bedrooms, the property has been extended to offer three reception rooms, an en-suite shower room, study and kitchen/breakfast room.

Outside there is a garage and a large driveway providing ample parking.

The gardens are in excess of one third of an acre and include a timber workshop, greenhouse, potting shed, brick-built barbecue and a wishing well.

Intercounty's Harlow office has full details on (01279) 639666

Priced at £249,950

WITH new double glazed windows, an en-suite shower room with new power shower and gas central heating, this well-presented property is perfect if you're looking for something that's ready to move in to.

house has a garage and driveway and a wider than normal garden

It occupies a corner, south-facing plot with a patio area and side gate. The driveway has space for up to four cars.

Finding the Right Property

If location is fundamental to a property purchase, then mapping is surely the most obvious way of highlighting location.

We choose to use locational maps on our property details/website as they make it easy for buyers to identify the property in relation to its surroundings. This is particularly useful when a buyer is considering a property that is slightly outside an area they might have preferred, as they can see from the map that the property is actually not that far away from their chosen area.

Additionally, as an aerial perspective, maps are an excellent way of showing areas of open spaces such as parks, woodland and lakes which are not always possible to see when driving round an area. This is particularly the case with the satellite image overlay which we use on many of our maps. Perhaps the area is not quite as built-up as it appears at street level. Google Streetview is also featured on our web description.

But the most obvious benefit of the use of mapping in relation to property particulars is that it makes a property easier to find. When buyers have seen four or five properties on a cold wet winter's evening, if they can't find the property easily, it's all too easy simply to give up, resulting in a lost viewing. (This is another reason why a For Sale board is so important as well.)

As well as providing straight-talking good advice for sellers, we never forget that the job of a good estate agent is to help make it easier for buyers to find the right property literally!

FIRMS FIRST AUCTION ATTRACTS LOTS OF INTEREST

PROPERTY auctioneers Auction House East Herts and West Essex held its first sale on Monday - and was delighted at the response.

Nine lots ranging from commercial and residential properties to land were on the catalogue for the auction which attracted more than 150 people to Fanhams Hall Hotel in Ware.

One of the lots was sold pre-auction for five per cent over the guide price. Four went under the hammer and a further two were tied up immediately after the sale.

Among the properties sold were a fish and chip shop in Baldock, which went for 10 per cent above the guide price, and a three-bedroom end-of-terrace property in need of some work.

Auction House proprietor Matt Dixon said: "It was fantastic to see so many people turn up. I honestly thought 80 cups of coffee would be enough!

"I have got to say that even though banking criteria is tough, there is a lot of cash about."

Auction House will be holding sales every six weeks, the next scheduled for September 24.

"We are now currently looking for more lots and would be delighted to talk to anyone no matter what type of property they own – plots, land, commercial or residential," said Mr Dixon.

Hybrid is a high flyer

By Andy Enright

Why is it that some cars manage to capture the public's imagination and others don't?

It's often very little to do with how good a car is and often comes down to something a bit more nebulous; smart marketing, or gelling with economic conditions of the time, that sort of thing. When Toyota's Yaris first appeared in 1999, it hit that lucrative nerve.

People loved the idea of a low-cost but well-built supermini with the bonus of Toyota's peerless reliability record. That car was replaced in 2005 but six years is a long time and, although the second generation car was undoubtedly better, its moment in the sun had passed.

Still a group of loyal buyers kept sales respectable right through to that car's replacement in 2012. In the meantime Toyota had been forging ahead with hybrid technology, primarily in its massively successful Prius but also increasingly in 'core' models such as the Auris hatch. It was only a matter of time before they figured out how to make hybrid work in a Yaris. That time has arrived.

Toyota certainly hasn't cut any corners

Test Drive: Toyota Yaris Hybrid

in engineering the Yaris Hybrid. If you were expecting an electrically assisted version of the 1.33-litre petrol engine that powers the usual higher range Yaris models, think again. The hybrid gets a 98bhp 1.5-litre four-cylinder powerplant mated to Toyota's Hybrid Synergy Drive.

An e-CVT gearbox takes care of cog-swapping which is a boon in city traffic, meaning drivers can rest their left legs. As with the Prius and the Auris hybrids, the Yaris can run on electrical power alone for short distances, helping to reduce noise in town centres. You will need to watch out for pedestrians who step into the road in front of the car.

If they didn't check the badging, most observers would be hard pressed to tell this was a hybrid model at standstill. It looks much like a 'conventional' Yaris model which, I guess, is part of the appeal. It's the same story inside. The Yaris Hybrid offers the same occupant space and 286-litre luggage capacity as conventional petrol and diesel Yaris models.

The controls are sensibly positioned and the dash features an eco gauge to help you drive more economically but with rival superminis offering some highly intelligent and charismatic interior designs, the Yaris falls a little short. It's a shame because the car does the hard work so effectively and may lose sales due to that last one per cent of interior tinsel that's often all that's needed to swing a buying decision. Perhaps after seeing the price tag, customers will already be sold on the idea.

Toyota makes quite some play of the fact that, upon launch, the Yaris Hybrid is the most affordable hybrid car on the market. It's true, and the Yaris undercuts its nearest priced hybrid rival, the Honda Insight, by a clear £2,000 and offers a good 10bhp more power in the process. Getting the price down to under £15,000 is quite an achievement, especially when you consider that Prius prices have crept up inexorably over the years, with entry level versions of that car costing more than £21,000 now.

The Yaris Hybrid is offered in T3, T4 and T Spirit trims and even the entry level model gets electric front windows and mirrors, a height-adjustable driver's seat, 'follow-me-home' headlights and an MP3-compatible CD stereo.

Now for the crunch. Does the Yaris Hybrid stack up on the balance sheet. In one instance, it's an absolute no-brainer. If your daily commute takes you into London's congestion charging zone, the exempt Yaris Hybrid will save you thousands of pounds a year over a conventionally powered rival.

There's a lot to like about the latest Toyota Yaris Hybrid. It's keenly priced, the technology is tried and trusted and it pitches into a vacant part of the market. It won't stay vacant for long as many rival manufacturers are eyeing it with envy, but Toyota is the first and it'll take quite a package to wrest its lead away. If you live in London or need a low tax company car, it's an absolute no-brainer.

For the rest of us who maybe aren't 100 per cent sold on the environmental message and merely fancy a well-built car that will cost buttons to run, it's not quite such a slam dunk of a deal. In fact, it doesn't work out much different in cost to buying and running a cheaper petrol-powered model over three years.

That pricing decision is probably deliberate on Toyota's part, as they need to maximise their profits without making the Hybrid a financial non-starter, but look beyond the billboard ads and you have an interesting car. Maybe not a conspicuous bargain, but it's a car that's respectable value for money. You can ask no more of it.

Scrap

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

MAKING TRACKS: Runners compete in the Harlow 10 race on Sunday

Paralympian starts Harlow 10 race

FORMER Paralympic gold medallist Noel Thatcher launched the 24th Harlow 10-mile road race on Sunday.

Organised by Harlow Running Club, Thatcher fired the starting gun to signal the beginning of this year's event.

Thatcher, who won five golds at six Paralympic games between 1984 and 2004, went on to finish 117th from 277 runners in one hour, 19 minutes and 50 seconds.

The race was memorable for Harlow Running Club debutant Dylan Mathews, who came third overall in 56.50.

The next Harlow finisher was Paul Jeffrey-Road who came 30th in 1:07.34.

He was followed home by David Ayling (35th, 1:08.42), Mark Goodger (58th, 1:11.32) and Peter Ayling (108th, 1:18.55) who all set personal best (PB) times.

Star reporter Vicky Lane came 274th in 2:04.39 despite suffering a bad knee injury.

This was her debut at the Harlow 10. She was treated by paramedics for her injury but was determined to complete the race.

The race was won by Mark Newton of Springfield Striders in a magnificent time of 55:26.

He was followed home by Paul Holley (Newmarket Joggers) who came second in 56:34.

Alex Gounelas (Eton Manor) was the first woman finisher. She was 12th overall in a superb time of 1:01.20.

She was closely followed by June Allen from Springfield Striders (13th, 1:01.31) and Jo Newens from the Road Runners Club (44th 1:09.44).

The course started in London Road opposite Mark Hall Sportscentre, went through New Hall, Church Langley, Hastingwood Road, Threshers Bush and Foster Street.

It then went along Harlow Common and then across Potter Street onto the cycle track, through Ladyshot along Momples Road and into Felmongers before the race finished on the athletics track at Mark Hall.

There were few home runners as Harlow provided around 50 marshals for the event.

Two days earlier, Steve Murtagh set a new Harlow Running Club veteran 45 record and a PB when he came 5th at the Serpentine 5km race in Kensington Gardens, West London. He clocked 16:37.

In a half marathon in Slough, Harlow's Andy Kinney clocked 1:59.50. He was 345th from 977 finishers.

Ison on the cake but no celebration

UPMINSTER all-rounder Alan Ison proved the difference between the two sides as Harlow slipped to a home defeat on Saturday.

Ison took 8-44 as Harlow were bowled out for 96 before he scored 31 helping the visitors overhaul the home score.

Harlow skipper Luke Heskett lost a crucial toss and the hosts were made to bat on a wet Marigolds wicket.

Andrew McGarry (18) and Luke Monger (15) saw Harlow to 34-0 before Ison took over.

Harlow then lost five wickets for just six runs as they collapsed to 40-5 with three batsmen falling for ducks, including youngster George Kenny who was run out.

Ahmed Khawaja (37) and Sukit Bastola (11) offered up some resistance, taking the score to 88-5 before another Ison-inspired collapse saw Harlow fall to just 96 all out.

Uppminster were never troubled in reply.

Aggio Brewie (32 not out) and Ison led them to the modest target with just four wickets down.

Monger (2-21) was the most successful Harlow bowler.

Heskett said: "It was always going to be difficult batting first on a damp wicket and

Brown given coaching job

DANNY Brown's role has changed at Harlow Town as he has been appointed first team coach.

The 31 year-old former Leyton Orient midfielder was the Hawks skipper last term but his football knowledge is being used to take on a crucial coaching role.

Brown, right, is an excellent footballer and a complete professional and will be a valuable lieutenant to Harlow boss Danny Chapman.

The captain's armband will now be worn by right-back Donny Barnard.

Chapman said: "Danny will still play and he will not be any different. He has played at a high level of football and will be excellent for us.

"Donny will be the first team captain. I have a lot of time for Donny and the players respect him."

Calais-born goalkeeper Bertrand Bossu has again re-signed for Harlow.

Although he made the odd clanger after joining Harlow early last season he also made match-winning saves.

Experienced midfielder Ryan Maxwell has left the Ryman division one north club.

Chapman said: "Ryan has things going on in his life but he had attended only one in eight trainings sessions and that is not enough. He understands the reason.

"Bert is an exceptional keeper and would be the best one in this league and the league above."

Hawks boss could sign two central midfielders. Danny Charles, previously with Barton Rovers, and Jordan Knight, are on trial at the club.

They figured in Harlow's opening pre-season 2-0 friendly victory at Essex Senior League side Takeley on Tuesday.

The first goal came when Takeley's Alex Martin put the ball into his own net on 21 minutes.

Sub Leon Antoine, who has returned to Harlow, made it 2-0 on 77 minutes when he headed home a Michael Deane cross

Antoine was at Heybridge last season.

Chapman said: "It was a good goal Antoine scored. We shall have to see what happens. I have to sit down with a number of players over the next week.

"It was a good exercise and I was pleased with the level of fitness shown by us."

Harlow visit Hertford Town this Saturday and neighbours Sawbridgeworth Town on Tuesday in friendlies.

Harlow's pre-season friendly at Canvey Island on August 4 has been cancelled and the Hawks will now play Whitstable Town at home on the same day (start 1pm).

IT REALLY WAS THIS BIG: Gary Cruse with his carp caught with a single piece of sweetcorn

No de-bait needed - it's a monster carp!

GARY Cruse shocked anglers when he caught a whopping 28lbs 3oz common carp with a single piece of sweetcorn to smash the Stort Valley Angling Society's long-standing specimen record.

Several members of the Harlow-based club contested their annual night match - the Nocturnal Trophy - at Weeley Lakes near Colchester.

Cruse tackled up with a 5lb main-line, size 14 hook, ground-bait feeder and a single grain of sweetcorn on the hook as bait.

He was aiming to catch bream.

However, after catching a few small bream the sweetcorn was picked up by the magnificent carp.

"The easy bit was hooking this fine specimen, the hard work was actually getting it to the bank on such light tackle. But after an epic hour-long, back-breaking and strength-sapping battle Gary succeeded, much to the amazement of all those present," said club spokesman Gordon Weemes.

His total weight netted on the night was 121lbs 8ozs, which was way ahead of Steve Beehan in second with 45lbs 15ozs.

Cruse's brother, Danny, was third with 45lbs 2ozs.

Win boost for Town as key match awaits

THIRD-placed Harlow Town will approach their crucial game at second-placed Hutton this Saturday in good spirits.

Town beat mid-table Benfleet by four wickets in division three of the Shepherd Neame Essex League last weekend and are gunning for promotion in their first season at this higher level.

Two sides are set to go up.

Visitors Benfleet were asked to bat first when Town skipper Dan Calver won the toss.

Calver and Dan Farmer both picked up early wickets to leave Benfleet struggling on 40-4.

Gavin Blowes scored an unbeaten 41 but Benfleet were all out for 108 in 53.5 overs.

Ramaya Upadhyay claimed four late wickets to finish with 4-18.

Matt Hurley and Charlie Coleman (22) put on 59 for the 4th wicket before the hosts lost three quick wickets.

However, youngsters Shaun Alderson (7 not out) and Hurley (34 not out) dragged Town over the finishing line (109-6) to secure 20 points for the win.

Other results:- Shepherd Neame Essex League 2nd XI div three: *Harlow Tn III (202-7) drew with Gidea Park & Romford III (68-7); 4th XI div two: Harlow Tn IV bt *Shenfield IV (170); Dan Dewry got four wickets by 22 runs.

Herts & Essex League, div six: Potter Street II (293-9) bt *Little Munden (237) by 56 runs.

Other games rained off (* denotes home team).

Wiggo's win to inspire a generation

VIN Denson believes Tour de France winner Bradley Wiggins will inspire a whole new generation of cyclists.

Former Great Britain cyclist Denson, of High Laver, watched with joy as the Team Sky rider became the first Briton to win the famous race.

Denson, a household name 50 years ago when he regularly competed in the Tour de France, now thinks there will be an influx of new riders taking up the sport, taking it back to its heyday when he competed in the 1960s.

"Wiggo has joined an exclusive club," beamed Denson, former vice-president of Harlow Cycling Club. "It's a great sport. That's why Chris Hoy will be carrying the flag for Great Britain at the Olympics on Friday.

"Bradley Wiggins has a great sense of humour. That's why the French love him. They all love Wiggo. They have taken him to their hearts."

Denson says Wiggins reminds him of five-times Tour de France record holder Jacques Anquetil. They raced in the same team at Ford France in the mid-1960s.

"He [Anquetil] was so cool. He did not panic. He would do the same as Wiggo, just let them go by and then reel them in."

Denson rode competitively for 57 years.

He is still today the only Englishman to ever win the Yellow Jersey on the Tour de France. He also won the prestigious Tour de Luxembourg and the Tour de Vuelta Bidasoa (Basque region of Spain).

Yellow peril for GB vet Denson

looked set to claim his first Tour de France Yellow Jersey, but distraught by the death of Simpson he was unable to carry on and win the sector in honour of his great friend.

"He was like a brother to me. I was his faithful servant. I remember being hysterical in tears. It felt as if something inside me died when Tom died. It was such a big loss to me.

"My director of sport said I needed to get to the finish line, but I could not believe it. I could not go on."

Denson and his Great Britain colleagues worked together as a team so Simpson could become Britain's first ever Tour de France Yellow Jersey winner in 1962.

They did this much the same way that GB riders Mark Cavendish and Chris Froome have helped Wiggins win this year's Tour de France, by blocking off other cyclists and slowing down the pace to exploit Simpson's lead. "We kept sitting in groups to mess them about," said Denson. "We had a great time together."

Simpson went on to claim two Tour de France Yellow Jerseys but surely would have won many more were it not for his premature death.

In 1965, he became the first Brit to win the men's road race world championship. This feat had never been equalled until GB's Cavendish won the same race in 2011.

Father-of-three Denson, who competed in six Tour de France in total, said: "He [Simpson] gave one Yellow Jersey to his family and one to me. I still have that first British jersey. He gave me his world championship jersey [from 1965] as well."

Simpson and Denson rode together for Great Britain for the first time in the 1961 Tour de France.

Chester-born Denson helped Simpson become Britain's first Yellow Jersey winner a year later. Simpson went on to finish 6th overall.

The High Laver cyclist joined Ford France in 1965, a renowned French team. "We were like the Man United of the cycling game, like Team Sky are now," Denson explained.

Head of this team was cycling legend Jacques Anquetil, who was the first person to win the coveted Tour de France title five times.

"He was my leader," explained Denson. "We won many sectors and many races."

Denson went on to become the first Brit to win the Tour de Luxembourg in 1965, which took competitors through Belgium and Germany before finishing in Luxembourg.

However, Denson quit the Tour not long after the death of Simpson.

Today, the Yellow Jersey which belonged to Simpson takes pride of place in Denson's home.

"I still treasure it. I have great memories. It must be worth thousands of pounds.

"I have promised it to my younger boy when I move on."

Huckle has eye on Olympics

Having home support is key, while former Mark Hall School student Huckle is very happy about the venue, the Royal Artillery Barracks.

"It's interesting for shooting because adrenalin and nerves can impact your performance a great deal," Huckle explained.

"But for most of our team having a friendly audience behind them will be a big boost."

He added: "We had a World Cup test event there in April and the venue is world class. Having a 50m and 10m range at a single venue saves a lot of space and the design will undoubtedly be used for future top events."

In the Munich World Cup in May in the 50m three positions, Huckle scored 1,166 points, two points below his personal best score which he attained at the Korean World Cup in April 2011.

He also gained a gold medal when he shot 594 points in the 10m air rifle in the English Smallbore Shooting Union Championships in June.

AIMING FOR MORE: James Huckle with his parents, Rosemary and Nigel at Heathrow Airport as the youngster returned from a training camp in Germany (s)

Fingers crossed for James

ROSEMARY Huckle's interest in the forthcoming London 2012 Olympics is purely focused on her ace shooter son James.

Mrs Huckle from Old Harlow is thrilled that the 21 year-old son has made it to the Olympics.

She said: "I have never really followed the Olympics. The excitement for me is purely for James. "Seeing your son's dream of making the Olympics coming true is immense for me."

She said that Huckle's interest in the Olympic Games had been fuelled by the Sydney 2000 Games in Australia. James was 10 at the time.

He originally took up shooting as a way of helping to keep control of pests on his father's farm in Harlow.

Mrs Huckle said: "Even before he did the shooting you could tell he had it in him [to do very well].

"He did judo to a high level before he then discovered shooting at 14.

"He had not known it was in the Olympics and I did not know. It was a shock to us."

She added: "Doing the shotgun shooting was very expensive and he did air-rifle shooting."

Mrs Huckle, who has tickets to see her son in action, is very focused about the Olympics.

"He will not think about what he does or has done until after the games," Mrs Huckle said.

This is the first time Huckle has competed at the Olympics, so it means even more to the youngster that this has come at a games taking place barely 25 minutes from his home.

The former Mark Hall School student previously shone at the 2010 Commonwealth Games in Delhi.

His parents did not travel to India, where he gained two silver and two bronze medals.

Huckle competes in the 10 metre air rifle, 50m three position rifle event (prone, standing and kneeling) and the 50m prone in London.

The shooting events take place at the state-of-the-art Royal Artillery Barracks in Woolwich, South East London.

Gold for Bauer at British Masters

A COURAGEOUS Dave Bauer claimed a gold medal when he competed at the British Masters Athletics Championships.

The experienced Harlow Athletic Club member was not feeling well and suffering from a shin problem in the event at Moorways Stadium in Derby.

But Bauer's first throw of 37.87 metres in the discus was still enough to win the men's 45 age group category on Saturday.

He said: "I had little energy to increase it any further but it was enough to win it. It was a great shame as technically I thought I was a little better than recently.

"I have not had much luck with injuries this season."

On Sunday, Bauer was still feeling unwell but managed to throw 32.47m for fourth spot in the hammer. He then threw 9.91m to come sixth in the shot put.

Bauer, of Quarry Springs in Harlow, also came fourth in the heavy hammer. He threw the 35lb hammer a massive 10.28m.

IN BRIEF: A fun sports and leisure day which caters for all abilities and ages is being held at Stewards School this Saturday. The event runs from 11am to 3pm and is designed to encourage those with disabilities to get an active lifestyle and take part in various sports. There is a £1 entry fee.

Star Olympics diary

THE Germans are coming!

That's the German Olympic men's and women's badminton teams anyway!

Harlow Council have pulled off a coup as the squad are travelling up from the Olympic Village to take part in a training session at Leisure Zone in Second Avenue from 5pm-7pm tomorrow (Thursday).

See next week's Star for our picture special of the Germans warming up for London 2012. Meanwhile, Harlow's James Huckle and Chloe Rogers will launch their bid for London 2012 Olympics glory in the next four days.

Old Harlow marksman Huckle (21), competes in the 10 metre air rifle event on Monday (July 30).

Great Britain hockey player Rogers, who was born in Harlow, is set to play in the team's group opener against Japan this Sunday (7pm).

GB take on Korea on Tuesday (July 31) at 2pm and then face Belgium on Thursday (August 2) at 4pm.

Huckle has two other events the following week, which is when Andrew Osagie will make his Olympics debut.

The judo competition begins on Saturday.

Sally Conway, who who is the daughter of Mark Conway who runs The Edge Martial Arts Studio in The Stow, Harlow will compete in this event.

ANDREW FRAN CZAK VISITS THE LONDON 2012 OLYMPIC VILLAGE

WHEN the Star-based athletes arrived at the Olympic Village to settle into their rooms this week, they, like the thousands of other athletes and officials, were in for a treat.

No stone has been left unturned in the quest to make London 2012 Olympians as comfortable and relaxed as possible in the run up to the biggest event of their lives.

Harlow Athletic Club member Andrew Osagie will compete in the 800m heat on August 6.

Also making his Olympics debut is Old Harlow marksman James Huckle. He will compete in the 50m rifle three positions and 10m rifle competitions, starting on Monday.

Harlow-born Chloe Rogers will line up in the women's hockey for Team GB. Their first match is against Japan on July 29.

The world's press was given a tour of the Olympic Village on a blissfully sunny Thursday morning, and Herts & Essex Newspapers – publisher of the Star – the only local newspaper group to be given press accreditation for the Lee Valley White Water Centre canoe slalom, was allowed access to the Olympic Park to take a sneak preview of the facilities on offer.

Having passed through tight security the first thing that strikes you is the sheer scale of the place.

The village is split into three main zones where the athletes will live in high-rise flats.

All have eco-friendly sounding names. There's the Heritage Zone, the Countryside Zone and the Seaside Zone – which had deckchairs lined outside all the accommodation blocks.

The streets have uplifting names like Celebration Avenue, Prize Walk, Anthem Way and Cheering Lane, and also reflect the history of the Games – De Coubertin Street for example.

The lush green grass of Victory Park, the central area of the 36-hectare village, makes for a beautiful backdrop for the massive complex of 11 residential blocks to house up to 16,000 athletes and team officials.

The rooms are quite spacious, with bedside cabinets, wardrobes and most importantly 'extendable' beds to cater for the taller athletes.

They also have black out curtains. Each apartment has a lounge and more than 3,500 televisions have been provided by Panasonic. There is also free internet courtesy of BT.

But the really fun bit of the village is The Globe,

Athletes ready to enjoy Costa del Stratford

the main centre of athlete recreation in the Village. It's like stepping into a huge entertainment mall – there's a private cinema, stage, bar, music studio, countless pool and football tables, a computer gaming area as well as televisions and Blu-ray players.

I can see a lot of athletes spending their time there (post-competition of course) but I only hope they keep the noise down for those living in the block next door!

I've heard a lot about the main dining area at the Olympic Games, where numerous competitors have seen their strict diet regimes go out of the window. Walking through the door it's easy to see why.

An almost aircraft hangar-sized dining area (it can fit in the equivalent of 880 double-decker buses) serves food 24 hours a day.

The statistics are mind-boggling: 1.2 million meals will be served to athletes throughout the Games comprising of 1,300 different types of dishes.

More than 25,000 loaves of bread, 232 tonnes of potatoes, 75,000 litres of milk and more than 33 tonnes of fruit including 2.7 million bananas will be consumed by the athletes during the Olympic and Paralympic Games.

The vast array of food on offer is themed to include Best of British, African and Caribbean, Indian and Asian and European and Mediterranean. Sadly none were open yet, so I had to content myself with a coffee and croissant.

Should the weather improve, there will be an outdoor street food dining area with barbecues.

Ironically, just next door is the state-of-the-art gym area. Should athletes need to get in any last-minute training there are more than 750 different pieces of gym equipment and a team of at least 100 professional trainers to offer advice (if needed).

Hopefully no one will fall ill during the Games, but a brief visit to the state-of-the-art Polyclinic provided me with reassurance that they would be very well looked after.

There's an emergency department, a pharmacy (where thousands of free condoms are available – placed in highly visible baskets by the entrance), as well as optometry, dentistry, podiatry and sports massage services to name but a few.

Approximately 200 athletes are expected to be treated daily, with the most common ailments, strains and sprains, common cold and wounds and grazes looked at.

As for being pampered there's a beauty and grooming salon provided by P&G, a dry cleaners, florist, postal services, ticket office, photographic services and tourist information.

Mayor of London, Boris Johnson, joked that the accommodation at the village was better than any on the continent.

"The athletes can have their nails done, they can have their hair done, and can enjoy any legal entertainment that London has to offer here," he said.

"I don't want to sound in any way chauvinistic about our achievements in creating this beautiful village here – it not only beats Center Parcs, it is more luxurious than any holiday village to be found on the Costa del Sol!"

With the weather, for once, behaving itself, the village really did have the feel of one big holiday camp.

There's no doubt that the organisers of the Games should be applauded for providing such an amazing facility to ensure that not only are the athletes comfortable and relaxed before their competition, but able to let their hair down once they are finished.

Huckle has eye on Olympics after Germany camp

SHOOTER James Huckle is in buoyant mood as he prepares to represent Great Britain in his first ever Olympics.

The 21 year-old, from Old Harlow, settled into the Olympic Village last weekend after coming back from a pre-Games training camp in Germany.

Huckle, pictured above, is set to compete in three events at the London 2012 Olympic venue at Woolwich, South London starting on July 30 in the 10m air rifle.

He also competes in the men's three-position rifle event (prone, standing and kneeling) shooting from 50m on August 6 and the 50m prone on August 3.

Huckle said: "The pre-Games training camp was great for keeping focus and away from any distractions.

"Training is going very well and I'm in my best current form. I feel a sense of controlled excitement and as this is my first Olympics just absorb as much from the whole experience as possible."

He added: "The main aim is to shoot my absolute best at the biggest sporting event of my career."

The marksman will be aiming to add to the two silver and two bronze medals he won at the 2010 Commonwealth Games in India.

He is part of a 10-person GB squad competing in Greenwich.

There will be 390 shooters from 108 countries competing in London, more than any at any other Olympic Games.

Huckle said: "I think we are all quietly confident of a few medals for the team. Shooting is an event where anything can happen on the day and everyone on the team has the ability to win medals.

"We have current world No. 1 Peter Wilson and previous Olympic champion Richard Faulds for the double trap event."

He added: "China and America are the strongest nations but actually with shooting hosting the most countries out of any sport, you will see medal winners from the least-known countries."

Yellow peril!

Cycling club supremo and former GB ace Denson recalls tragedy and triumph at the Tour de France

By ALAN SCOTT
alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

WATCHING Bradley Wiggins win the Tour de France on Sunday brought home many poignant memories for ex-Great Britain cyclist Vin Denson, proud owner of the first ever Yellow Jersey won by a Brit.

Former Harlow Cycling Club vice-president Denson, 77, was given the Yellow Jersey - won by his British team-mate and cycling legend Tommy Simpson in the Tour de France - the year before tragedy struck in the famous race and claimed Simpson's life at the age of 29, 45 years ago this month.

Simpson was Britain's first cycling world champion.

Loaded with amphetamines during the days when there were no doping controls, he was competing in the Tour de France alongside Denson in 1967 when tragedy struck on Friday the 13th as the stage reached a dangerous hill of a sector at Mont Ventoux where fumes from volcanic ash filled the air.

Denson, of High Laver, who would later oversee the construction of the velodrome in Harlow, the top racing track for British cyclists in the 1970s, had stopped before the hill at Mont Ventoux with a puncture, but

Simpson collapsed near the summit and was whisked to hospital by helicopter only for the high altitude to starve his brain of oxygen and kill him.

Osagie's on best behaviour in Monaco!

ANDREW Osagie broke his personal best time when he clocked 1 minute 44.48 seconds in Monaco in his final race before the London Olympics.

Competing in the prestigious Samsung Diamond League in the plush surroundings of the principality, the Harlow Athletic Club member took nearly a second off his previous Diamond League 800m time last week in Crystal Palace - and was still disappointed!

Osagie said: "It's a sad day when you're disappointed with a PB ha ha! 1:44.48 out here in Monaco. Can't wait for the wind and rain of the big LDN [London] now!"

Osagie was 8th in the race.

His previous best time was 1:44.61.

The GB hope will now complete his preparations for 2012 with a training camp in Portugal.

Osagie, of Northbrooks in Harlow, races in the 800m heat at Stratford in his first Olympics on August 6.

● HARLOW-born sprinter Sam Watts finally overcame the psychological barrier of breaking 21 seconds in a 200m race when he was victorious when representing Great Britain in a meeting at Amsterdam in Holland last weekend.

The 20-year-old ran 20.93s and was half a second ahead of second-placed Richard Strachan (21.49s).

Watts clocked the time despite running into a +2.6 headwind, which was blowing heavily into his face on the bend.
